

Visiting Assistant Professor in Composition and Rhetoric

The English department at the University of Wisconsin-Madison invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor in Composition and Rhetoric for a one-year appointment (August 25, 2008 – May 24, 2009). Research field is open; candidates should demonstrate potential for excellence in research and teaching. Duties include a 2-2 teaching load and department service appropriate to the appointment. Teaching opportunities may include writing courses and “Composition Theory for English Teachers” at the undergraduate level and “Introduction to Composition Studies” and a seminar in area of speciality at the graduate level.

The University of Wisconsin-Madison is home to a distinguished English department and nationally renowned graduate program in Composition and Rhetoric. For more information about the Composition and Rhetoric Program please visit: <http://www.wisc.edu/english/comprhet/>. The university and Madison offer numerous opportunities for research and intellectual community including the Wisconsin Historical Society, the Center for the Humanities, and the Institute for Research in the Humanities.

A Ph.D. in Composition and Rhetoric or closely related area is required by the start of the appointment. Review of applications will begin April 15, 2008, and continue until the position is filled. Send letter of application, C.V., and dossier to Michael Bernard-Donals, Chair, Department of English, University of Wisconsin-Madison, 600 N. Park St., Madison, WI 53706.

NOTE: Unless confidentiality is requested in writing, information regarding the names of applicants must be released upon request. Finalists cannot be guaranteed confidentiality.

UW-Madison is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. We promote excellence through diversity and encourage all qualified individuals to apply.