DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH - GRADUATE DIVISION

List of Editors, Proofreaders, and Tutors
Revised September 23, 2009

This list of editors, proofreaders, and tutors in English is provided by the Department of English at the University of Wisconsin at Madison as a community service. The English Department does not endorse the qualifications or guarantee the services of any of the persons who have submitted their names for inclusion on the list. Fees are negotiated on an individual basis. The persons below are listed in random order. You should read each entry carefully to make sure the editor can fulfill your needs (i.e., last minute work, tutoring, etc.).

Andy Karr

Proofreading/Editing ($30/hr)

QUALIFICATIONS: BA (Swarthmore) and MA (Missouri State) in English. I am currently a PhD student in English literature at UW-Madison, entering my fourth year teaching (introductory and intermediate composition, literature), second year working at the writing center, and second year editing academic work. I am happy to proofread, edit, and work with English as a foreign language concerns. I am open to writing in all disciplines, and have experience with advanced work in the social sciences as well as the humanities. I will consider rush requests at an increased rate.

Sara Phillips

$25/hr proofreading; $30/hr copyediting (i.e. line editing); $35/hr content editing

QUALIFICATIONS: In addition to teaching English composition and literature in the English department for the past five years, I have 10 years of professional experience as an editor, proofreader, copyeditor, and writer in trade and scholarly publishing. As a publishing professional I have edited over 50 book manuscripts, and have worked on a freelance basis with writers who are turning their dissertations into books. My current experience is in developmental editing, that is, editing book-length projects from the ground up, which often involves rewriting and restructuring. I have worked with several professors in the department preparing their manuscripts for press, as well as professional writers, but I particularly enjoy working with student writers and ESL writers in different disciplines. I'm well-versed in Chicago, MLA, and APA styles. I currently work as a book editor at the Wisconsin Historical Society Press and as an editorial assistant for Contemporary Literature. I'm glad to consider last minute or rush requests for an extra fee.
